THE AWAKENING.

They are not dead, O no, just sleeping;
Just tucked in bed for safe keeping.
When forest trees their leaves were shedding,
Making warm their winter bedding,

They heeded not.

When old King Frost, that silent reaper,
Laid low to earth each tiny sleeper,

They just forgot.

When spring once more with smiles and showers,
Calls into light these sleeping flowers,
And song of bird and bloom together,
Make glad the days of springtime weather,

For you and me,
A symbol of this life of ours,
The resurrection of the flowers,
Would seem to be.

CHOICE FLOWERS FROM SEEDS.

IT IS NOT generally known that the healthiest plants, and often the most beautiful flowers are grown from seeds. A supply of choice double or single Dahlias can thus be obtained at a nominal cost, and if started early the plants will make a grand display, blooming as early as those grown from roots, while the flowers will often be of handsome form and very rich or novel shades of color. The finest Autumn-flowering Chrysanthemums are produced from carefully saved seeds. In this way the Chrysanthemum has been wonderfully improved. Those who have grown plants from seeds are pleased with the result, and continue the work year after year. The three kinds of flowers shown in the engraving are easily grown from seeds, and the plants quickly become of blooming size. The French Dwarf Cannas make a grand bed of bloom, and if given a sunny place, and kept liberally watered they will bloom from June till frost, the bed becoming more attractive every week.

The New Vanguard Carnation is a hybrid of the Margaret class, considered even more beautiful than that popular race, though the seedlings do not bloom till a week or two later. The plants are readily grown from seeds, and when bedded in a sunny place they are beautiful and richly perfume the garden.

Centaurea Imperialis is a hybrid of C. odorata and C. Moschata. The plants grow four feet high, branch freely, and become a showy clump, the flowers being large, of various shades—rose, white and blue, and continuing in bloom throughout the season. The seeds start quickly, and the plants are easily transplanted.

Cyclamen, Asparagus, Lobelia, Myosotis, Cinerarias and Calceolarias are almost exclusively propagated from seeds, and the finest plants of Lantana, Heliotrope, Torenia, and Streptocarpus are started in the same way.

The time is now at hand for obtaining seeds of these choice flowers, as well as the showy and beautiful annuals, and those who have been in the habit of buying their plants should try raising them from seeds. The effort is generally well repaid in watching the tiny plants develop into full-grown, blooming specimens, responding in special beauty to the skill and care given them during growth. The cost of the seeds is trifling, while the pleasure and satisfaction afforded in their culture can hardly be estimated.

White Flies.—These are often troublesome upon Fuchsias, Nasturtiums, and Salvias. Pyrethrum powder is an effectual remedy, but to properly administer it the plants should be placed in a frame covered with muslin, with one side arranged to open and close. Keep this side open until the plants are infested, then suddenly close and dust thoroughly inside with the powder. If the application is repeated a few times the pest will soon cease to be troublesome.

Scale.—When an Asparagus is troubled with scale rub the stems to loosen the pest, then wash with hot suds. If badly infested cut off the tops and burn them, and see that the stems remaining are free from the pest. If the tops are infested it is almost impossible to clean them.

Pansies in Florida.—The best time to sow seeds of Pansies in Florida is in the early autumn. The plants will then begin to bloom as winter approaches, and make a fine display until the warm weather of spring arrives. The same may be said of Phlox Drummondii, Portulaca, Gilia, and many other annuals.

Hibiscus Sinensis.—This is a valuable everblooming shrub of easy culture. It is not hardy at the north, and must be grown as a pot plant to bloom during the winter. It does well bedded out in summer and kept well watered. In the fall lift it before frost, cut back the tops and pot in a vessel of suitable size, giving good drainage. Any rich, porous potting compost will suit it. Pot very firmly, and keep out of sun and drafts of air for a few days. Keep in a dry, frost-proof room, watering sparingly till it is time to bed out again. Plants grown in pots may be kept in the plant window, and will bloom during winter if given a sunny place.

Destroying Ants.—The small red ants that often prove a nuisance in the flower garden and on the lawn in many localities can be readily destroyed by placing fresh meat bones where they will collect, then dipping the bones in scalding water, when covered with the insects. Attention of this kind for a few days will effectually eradicate the nuisance.

Pennisetum Rueppelianum.—This is an annual grass, bearing beautiful, plump heads. Like Wheat and Rye, it may be sown in the autumn where the climate is not too severe, and will perfect its heads the following season. It can, however, be sown early in spring, but is likely to be more or less injured by the heat and drought of summer.

PORTULACAS FOR BEDS.

FOR a sunny bed of sandy soil the varieties of single and double Portulaca are hardly excelled for a showy exhibition in the bright forenoons of summer. The little, silvery seeds start readily when sown early, and the pretty, succulent, moss-like foliage makes an admirable background for the rich-colored flowers. When sown in the spring the plants bloom in summer; when sown in summer the plants make a grand show during the cool months of autumn. The following note is from one who had a bed of this charming flower last year:

Dear Mr. Park:—Last spring I conceived the notion of planting a couple of three-cent packages of mixed Portulaca in a bed of sandy soil that was centered around a hardy flowering shrub that stands on the south side of the house. On the hot summer mornings it was a thing of beauty—a carpet of cool, glistening green, dotted all over with a charming mixture of single and double bloom, in all shades of red, pink, yellow and bronze, and many flowers striped and variegated. J. Edwin Fletcher.

Hampden Co., Mass., Dec. 12, 1906.

The little plants should stand from four to six inches apart. They begin to bloom when quite small, branching and blooming as they get older, until the whole bed is a mat of lovely foliage and flowers. Being of easy culture a bed of them might well be found at every house where flowers are grown. They also do well in vases or window boxes; they will endure much neglect, and grow and bloom even under unfavorable conditions.

Lavender.—This old-fashioned plant is grown from either seeds or cuttings. The seeds usually start in about two weeks, though sometimes earlier, sometimes later. Keep the soil moist, but not too warm, after sowing. If the first and second sowings fail, try a third. Seeds that have become old will not germinate promptly or freely. When sown in a protected bed out-doors the seeds sometimes start more satisfactorily than when sown in the house.

Sea Onion.—A subscriber from Maryland writes enthusiastically about the Sea Onion (Ornithogalum caudatum). She has one in a four-inch pot that is just coming into bloom, and is greatly admired. It is a fine specimen, and requires but little care. She attributes her special success to keeping the pot near a rain-barrel, where the soil was kept constantly moist.

Tuberous Begonias and Gloxinias.—The young tubers of these are preferable to the older ones. A tuber from three-fourths to an inch across will, if well cared for, make a more vigorous, beautiful and lasting plant than a larger tuber. An old tuber, like an old horse, lacks vitality, and will soon have to be thrown into the rubbish heap. Those who buy Tuberous Begonias and Gloxinias should make a note of this hint. As a rule, it is better to buy larger tubers of Gloxinias than Begonias, as they dry out more readily.

PRUNING EVERGREENS.

AS a rule evergreen trees need no pruning, except to cut away dead limbs. The beauty of a pine is in its pleasing natural shape, clothed with limbs from the ground up. To cut away the lower limbs is to destroy the natural beauty. In planting such trees care should be taken that they are set where the view will not be obstructed by their growth. The tops of evergreens are sometimes cut back to encourage a dense growth, and with some species the results of such pruning are very satisfactory; but to trim away the lower limbs, unless dead and leafless, is not considered good taste, and the effect is anything but pleasing to the æsthetic eye.

A Fine Old Annual.—The Scabiosa or Mourning Bride, found in old gardens, has been greatly improved, and is now among the most beautiful of garden annuals. The flowers are double, very large, and exhibit a wide range of colors. The following note is a sample of many received from persons who have grown the improved Scabiosa:

Mr. Editor:—An annual that I was much pleased with last year was Scabiosa. The flowers were beautiful, and were in such a variety of colors. I want to have a large bed of it this year.

May Norcross.

Glocester Co., N. J., Jan. 29, 1907.

This may be of interest to persons making out their seed orders. The seeds can be sown early, and the plants bloom throughout the autumn.

The Butterfly Bean.—This is a variety of Scarlet Runner, and a promising novelty. The flowers are pink and white, come in clusters, and are very showy. The vine is a rapid grower, and will quickly cover a trellis or wall, climbing upon strings to the height of twenty feet. The big beans which succeed the flowers, are excellent for table use, either green or dry. The flowers are more freely produced, however, if the seed pods are not allowed to develop. A rich, tenacious soil suits it, and it thrives in a place fully exposed to the sun.

Keeping Bulbs.—Bulbs of Allium, Anomathea, California Hyacinth, Oxalis, Sparaxis, Tiger Lily and Tritelia should be put in soil as soon as received. If the ground is frozen put in shallow trays of soil and keep moist and in a cool but frost-proof place till spring, then bed them out. Nearly all bulbs and tubers are injured more or less by exposure to air.

Rose for Western Exposure.—The hardy Prairie Rose, Baltimore Belle, is suitable for training upon the west side of the house. It is a vigorous climber, and a free summer bloomer. Prune it vigorously after the flowers fade, leaving only the strong lower shoots, and a glorious display of bloom can be depended upon the following season.

EDITORIAL LETTER.

EAR FLORAL FRIENDS:—For winter flowers in the window the ordinary window-gardener requires plants that will bloom without special conditions or special care, and the best of these can be numbered upon your fingers. If you will go with me to the greenhouse I will point out to you these few flowers, or, you could point them out yourself if you should bring the various plants under review.

As we enter I want you to note the handsome big blooming sprays of Bougainvillea Sanderi. The vine is bedded in the soil by the wall, and has been growing in its present place for several years. It makes a vigorous growth of long, slender stems, covered with rich, evergreen foliage, and during the winter these stems have developed side shoots which terminate in a glorious panicle of flowers. This is a rare vine in the window, but when grown in a pot for two years, shifted till in a seven-inch pot, and kept cut back, it becomes a fine blooming specimen during the dull months of winter and early spring. Indeed a plant grown in the conservatory or greenhouse is rarely without flowers, and in the spring months it is especially attractive. It really should be better known and more popular. Its grand display of showy bracted flowers can hardly be surpassed.

But look at this group of potted fibrous-rooted Begonias upon the bench near by. Every plant shows its lovely rich crimson clusters, and the shining, bronzy foliage forms an attractive background for the bloom. Those plants are of the variety known as Bertha Chateroche. The plant is of free growth, the branches gracefully arching, and in winter it is loaded with its elegant drooping flower clusters. This is one of the easily-grown Begonias that never fail to make a fine winter display, and give entire satisfaction.

What an attractive and beautiful flower-show appears upon the bench a little further on. The flowers almost hide the foliage, are of waxy texture, and glow with richness of color. Those plants are of Impatiens sultana and I. Holsti in variety.

Impatiens Holsti.

There is not an easier grown winter-blooming plant known than these Impatiens, and none that make a finer display. They bloom continuously during winter, and will bear as much neglect as almost any plant of like habit. They are also choice bedding plants for a partially shaded place in summer. They are easily started from seeds.

But I want you to notice that mass of delicate pink clusters of Crassula cordata, upon the other bench. The little star-shaped flowers appear in elegant panicles, and even the long, fleshy, coral-like stems are attractive, and hold the flowers well above the thick, succulent foliage. Few persons who try this plant report discouragingly of it, while many are its enthusiastic admirers and friends. It is absolutely certain to bloom freely during the winter months, if it has even a modicum of care.

Here, near by, are some little plants of the Weeping Lantana. I have never regarded it as a first-class plant for the window in winter, but you will notice that every branch of this group of plants bears a terminal cluster of pretty purplish flowers. From this I can readily understand why some write so favorably of this easily-grown Lantana for window culture.

The tall group of plants on the upper bench is of Goldfussia, sometimes known as Strobilanthes anisophyllus.

The flowers are not unlike those of some species of Pentstemon, being bell-shaped and of a pleasing lavender color. It has graceful, dark, bronzy foliage, and being of dense, regular growth it makes a pretty plant for the window, while it is reliable as a blooming plant. The fading flowers must be picked from this plant to have it appear well.

How beautiful that big plant of Cuphea platycentra is! It is growing on the bench, and has been laden with its little scarlet, black-tipped flowers throughout the winter. It really has but little attention, yet everybody admires and praises its beauty. This Cuphea is just as valuable for summer-blooming, and will grow in either sun or shade, though it blooms more freely in a sunny place.

Other flowers for winter-blooming that are perhaps as valuable, are Eupatorium riparium, Double Nasturtium, Salvia Alfred Ragineau, Eranthemum pulchellum, Lopesia rosea, Vinca rosea and the indispensable varieties of Primula sinensis, P. obconica and P. floribunda.

I have named these plants, my friends, that you may keep them in mind for next winter, and procure them early in summer. If you do this and shift into larger pots

as the plants grow you will have fine and reliable plants for your window display the coming winter. Impatiens, Cuphea, Salvia, Vinca and Primroses may be grown in quantity from seeds, but the others must be started from slips or purchased as small plants, the whole out-lay for both seeds and plants not exceeding $1.00.

Florally yours,
The Editor.

CHILDREN'S LETTER.

OME with me, dear children, this lovely February morning, and we will take a walk in the meadow by the edge of the river. Put on your overshoes and warm caps, for, though the sun is bright and warm, the ground is damp and cold and the air moist and chilly. "Is this a spring morning, and are there any flowers blooming yet?" I hear little Tommy ask.

Well, Tommy, it's so near spring that we might call it a spring morning. March is the first month of spring, and we usually think of March 1st as the first day of spring. Sometimes, however, that day is cold, and the bitter, snow-laden winds whistle to us from the house-corners: "Better stay in, or Jack Frost will bite you!" But this February morning, bright and clear, is near to and like a spring morning. When we passed the bed of Snowdrops and Early Crocuses did you not see the little heads peeping up, as if to say to you:

Snow-drops and Early Crocuses.

"Good morning! Is it spring time—time to wake up?" But look there, Tommy, at your feet! What is that?

"Oh, see! It's a big red-and-yellow-spotted flower. Be careful, Tommy, or you'll tramp it!" cries little Ella.

"Yes; there are three of them, and they are all in a bunch!" exclaims little Willie. "What are they?"

Well, what do you think, Willie? Look closer and smell. Aren't they pretty?

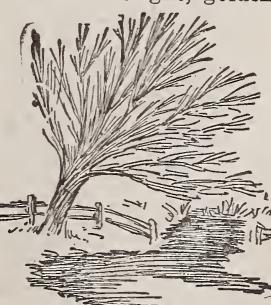

"Yes; they are pretty," says Willie. "But, oh! how they smell! I like to look at them better than to smell them. They look something like mamma's Calla Lily flowers, but are red and yellow instead of white. But where are the leaves?"

Now, let me tell you. That is a plant of Skunk Cabbage, the easiest name you can give it, for the botanist calls it Symplocarpus foetidus—pronounced Sim-plo-kar'-pus fo'-tid-us. The plant is found in wet or swampy places, and is the earliest blooming of our native plants, usually showing its rich colors in January or February in the latitude of Philadelphia. It belongs to the Arum family, which includes the Calla and the Indian Turnip. The showy part of the flower is called the spathe. The flowers proper, which bear the seeds, are produced upon a spike (spadix) in the center of the spathe. The seeds ripen in summer, forming a globular cluster of green, berry-like fruit. The leaves, which are large and broad, develop as the flowers fade. Notwithstanding the unpleasant odor of the flowers, the plant is interesting and desirable, and should be introduced along the edge of a stream, or where the soil is wet or "spouty".

Did you notice this big Willow tree that waves its bright, golden branches over the water and makes a show even at a distance? It is known as Salix alba (white) in books, because it has silvery foliage, but is commonly called the Yellow Willow, because of the rich-yellow bark of the new growth. The color becomes more vivid as spring advances, until at last the leaves burst forth in such numbers as to hide its many branches.

About this time, if you listen, you may hear, at or near this tree occasionally, the clear sound of a whistle, or perhaps a band of whistles of different tones. Do you ask why you hear this music? Well, it is because some boy is trying his new jack-knife making whistles from the golden willow bark. You cut a smooth, bright twig half an inch or more in diameter, having no knots or branches in it (see Fig. 1); ring and remove the bark at a and cut a nick in, as at b; then beat and rub the bark with the smooth handle of your knife until the bark is loose and you can push the wood out, leaving only the bark. Now take the wood part, cut off a stopper for the rear end of the bark whistle, and at the other end cut off a stopper for the mouthpiece. At the top of this shave off a part, making it even with the nick in the bark (see Fig. 2); then insert and blow. You will have as many different tones as you have whistles. Keep these whistles in water when not using, to prevent drying out, which will ruin them. Chestnut sprouts make fine whistles treated in this way.

When whistle time (which is just when the leaves are developing) is past, if you listen under the willow tree, you will hear the buzz of countless numbers of insects.

Upon closer examination you will see honey-laden bracts or silvery-green bloom in the form of little tails, not showy but quite interesting. You can then spend some time studying these insects and the flowers. This willow is readily started from a limb or twig cut off in the spring, the branches being pruned back, leaving only the bare stem. Insert this in the moist ground near a stream or lake, say a foot deep, and in a short time roots will form and leafy branches will develop.

But listen, dear children! Do you hear, up among the golden, twiggy branches of the willow, the delightful notes sung to these words:

All well at home today?

All well at home today?

Look again! Do you see the dear little bird with a bright-blue coat and a brownish vest flitting about among the branches? Yes, it's a little blue-bird, just returned from its winter resort in the south, giving us a joyous greeting, and inquiring about our welfare. How happy he seems to be back in his northern home! You remember the day he flew away last autumn. How sad were his notes of farewell! But they are different now. Then we felt a touch of sadness, as we listened to his brief song; today our hearts throb with joy at his glad and happy notes. He is doubtless looking for a hole in some hollow limb in which to build his nest, and is anticipating the joy of his happy sojourn among us during the summer months.

The old willow by the water's edge, dear children, was a favorite place with me in boyhood days. Many a summer hour I sat in its dense shade upon the bent and gnarled trunk reading. Many an hour I spent beneath it with brothers and sisters, swinging and playing and romping. Many a time I bathed in the deep, warm water by its mass of fibrous roots, and many a big, shining fish I pulled, in boyish sport with rod and line, from the clear, deep waters beneath its shade. Oh, the happy memories that cluster around the old willow tree! They have given me joy and rest throughout the busy and responsible days of manhood, and they will be a source of pleasure to me until the willow branches shall weep over the little mound that in time will mark the last resting-place of your

My Nasturtiums.—My Nasturtiums were planted in a long, narrow bed on the east side of the house, and proved very satisfactory. The climbing ones were next the house, and the bed edged with dwarf kinds. I prefer the climbing ones for cut flowers, as the blossoms are larger and they have longer stems.

A Porch Vine.—If a beautiful porch vine is wanted, nothing is finer than Passiflora Constance Elliott. It is slender and graceful, the beautiful, dark, shining, deeply cleft leaves swaying constantly in every breeze, and like some of the Honeysuckles, the foliage is held until January. It is not perfectly hardy, however, in the southwest, as I lost a lovely vine last winter that I thought was well protected. Its pure white flowers are very beautiful, and the vine does not sprout badly at the root.

FLORAL POETRY

GRANDMA'S CHICKADEES.

Every day they came to the door,
Six little balls of feathers and fun,
Each a little black bonnet wore,
And looked like the other one.

Grandma, ninety and dainty and neat,
Out with her cup of crumbs and seeds,
Scattered down at the twelve red feet
Enough for their hungry needs.

A hop, a flutter, and up they'd fly,
Each with a crumb in the apple tree,
And grandma, smiling and standing by,
Listened them "chicadee."

"Dee dee dee," they would call to her there,
That was their way of thanking you know;
Then down they'd come in the frosty air
For another crumb in the snow.

Never a day with wind too bleak
For the six little birds to venture out,
They knew they had but their need to speak
If grandma was about.

For grandma's heart is as true as steel,
And her smiling face is always bright;
Oh I know the way that chickadees feel
When grandma comes in sight.

LONGING.

I am longing for the country,
For the fields of wondrous green,
For the hills that rise in beauty,
For the lake with silver sheen,
For the gentle kine that follow
Lowing to the pasture bars,
For the boundless skies that glisten
With their never falling stars.

I am longing for the country
And its good old-fashioned ways,
For the kindly hands and helpful
Making bright the saddest days.
Lo amid the city's splendor
No familiar voice I hear,
Not one smiling face to greet me
'Mid the many passing here.

To this din and strife and traffic
I am as a stranger lone;
O! for something true and steadfast,
O! for someone all my own;
Yes I'm longing for the country
With its good old-fashioned ways,
For the country folks whose friendship
Brighten e'en the saddest days.

THE SNOWDROPS.

"Its rather dark in the earth today"
Said a little bulb to his brother,
"But I thought I felt a warm sunray;
Let's strive and grow till we find a way
Out of this prison, with walls of clay."

And they nestled close to each other,
Then they upward pressed by day and night,
Till two little Snowdrops in green and white
Slipped out of the darkness into the light—
And hastened to kiss one another.

AT EASTERTIME.

At Eastertime the spring draws near,
And winter lies away in fear,
As sunbeams dancing o'er the lea
Set all the frozen streamlets free,
And tell of wondrous mystery
At Eastertime, at Eastertime.

At Eastertime the hills are bare,
Yet fragrant Lilies pure and fair
Upon God's holy altars bloom,
In token of the risen tomb
Whence rose the Saviour from its gloom
At Eastertime, at Eastertime.

At Eastertime, at Eastertime,
As vibrant bells exultant chime,
And far across the azure sky
We see the rosy cloud-boats lie;
The gates of Heaven seem broad and high
At Eastertime, at Eastertime.

At Eastertime, let hearts that break
With silent grief now courage take,
As unseen angels comforting
Bid us to weep no more but sing
Of Christ the risen Priest and King,
At Eastertime, at Eastertime.

VIOLETS.

Just a tiny bunch of Violets—
English Violets fresh and sweet,
Sent with love to cheer the suffering—
Could there be a gift more meet?

How their fragrance fills the chamber,
Penetrating all the room;
Bringing to our minds the summer,
With its wealth of sweetest bloom.

Breath of Heaven sent down to mortals,
Every flower its language rare,
Subtile, sweet and all pervading,
Could there be a gift more fair?

Sweet Aroma! Yet the Violet
Lowly blooms upon earth's sod—
Like the Christian's daily influence Closely hid with Christ in God."

Both alike shed forth their perfume,
Whisper of a better land,
Where the flowers are ever fadeless,
Tended by an angel hand.

THE BUTTERFLY.

Pray tell me why the butterfly,
Soars such an awkward way?
Why don't it take a straighter course?
Now let the children say.

The butterfly seems unconcerned,
But careless—not a bit—
Its zigzag course will fool some child
Who tries to capture it.

REMINISCENT.

It was only a fragrant flower
Plucked from a loved one's grave,
But you little know the comfort
This blossom to me gave;
As the sweet perfume kept breathing
Of one my heart holds dear,
And I felt an angel's presence
A hov'ring 'round me here.

IN MARCH.

'Mid frozen ground, dry leaves and grass,
The Snow-drops ope' their eyes,
And Crocus lifts her pretty head
In wonder and surprise.

We shudder; but 'tis not for long
Thy chilly look and way,
For Mother Earth will don new robes
While March speeds on her way.

LEAF PROPAGATION.

NLY a limited number of plants can be started from the leaves, and it is well that it is so. In warm climates the Bryophyllum (air plant) becomes a nuisance in this respect. From every leaf which falls one to half a dozen plants will spring up. It seems to be quite independent of both soil and water, at least for a time. I nearly always keep a leaf of this plant pinned to the lace curtain for the oddity of seeing little plantlets sprout and grow along the margin of the notched leaves. They derive their nourishment, I suppose, from the little moisture still in the leaf. They will continue green and growing for a couple of months, and perhaps longer.

I have had leaves of the Hoya (wax plant) to root, and root well, but never to put forth any top growth.

Several kinds of Begonias can be grown from the leaf, but it hardly pays to bother with them, as the cuttings root so easily. The Rex varieties are an exception, however. It is fascinating work to grow these in this way, and, indeed, I know no other way by which they can be propagated. Pieces of the stalk of an old plant might be used as cuttings, but I have never tried them. I lay a leaf flat on the surface, usually stick a hairpin down through the middle, and set the pot in partial shade and where the leaf cannot be jostled about. I never fail to get several plants from each leaf, and in a very short time, too. Sometimes I cut the leaf into several pieces, putting them in separate pots.

Perhaps it is hardly quite true that a Cactus can be grown from the leaf. But it can, if you call the flattened stem a leaf, and it is really as much a leaf as a stem.

The true flower-lover delights in the propagation of plants quite as much as in their blossoming. This particular method of starting from a leaf is possibly the most interesting of all.

About Salvias.—The new Salvias were a surprise to me, being such an improvement on the older varieties. They bloom very freely, and the large, intense-colored flowers are produced in long spikes. The Salvia well deserves its honors as a standard bedding plant. It stands heat and drouth remarkably well. The Silverspot variety has beautiful foliage. Mrs. T. Sheb. Co., Wis.

GROUPING PLANTS.

I REMEMBER my delight on beholding a large alcove filled with fine plants, most of which were Begonias. There were a few other plants, but the contrast only brought out the coarseness of the Geraniums, etc. And when I at last had the satisfaction of seeing most of the others removed, I never tired of feasting my eyes on the beautiful foliage and chaste flowers of the Begonias, although the single specimens I had before seen crowded among other plants seemed quite unattractive.

The alcove of which I speak was formerly a south porch, but the carpenter-farmer set the wall out, put in windows and shelves, and across the entrance a rod for curtains, thus making an ideal home in the farm-house for this bit of tropical verdure and bloom. Later, when the family moved away and renters filled the alcove with a "grand mixture" of plants, the sight of it filled me with disgust. The plants were thrifty enough, but, oh! such a clashing of colors and forms and textures!

I once had a west sitting-room window that was quite near the stove. "Too bad you can't have flowers in that window," said a neighbor, "but Mary (the former mistress) never could. Between the heat of the sun in summer and the stove in winter everything she put there died." Now I had a young Epiphyllum, also a cutting of Cereus flagelliformis, and these I put in that window and watered with warm water, and they thrived wonderfully. One day, while calling upon an old lady, she said: "Look in that box on the mantel and see what my grandson sent me from Los Angeles, Calif." I opened the paper box to find therein a Cactus, and it was actually putting out tiny rootlets. "Why, it's trying to grow!" I exclaimed. "Is it? well, well!" said the old lady. "Take it home with you and plant it. No, no! I don't want it. I had enough of Cacti on the plains," she said, with a shrug of the shoulders, remembering her experience with Prickly-pears while crossing the plains with an ox-team fifty years ago. So I carried the pretty, soft little ball home to add to my collection. From that time my west window was an object of interest to me, and to others as well, and somehow my collection grew until I now have several windows full. But I do not mix other plants, except succulents, with them, and I never before had plants attract the attention they do, even when there isn't a bloom among them; and when one of them flowers it becomes an object of interest to all who behold it.

The Umbrella plant, Ferns, Asparagus and other plants of similar texture may be grouped together, and with a pot of Oxalis, Crocus or other bright flowers will make an attractive window.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT GOURDS.

—O—

THE GOURD FAMILY embraces some of the most useful and satisfactory of ornamental climbing plants. Many are of rapid growth, and have graceful and beautiful foliage, showy flowers and attractive fruits. The various kinds of Lagenaria possess all of these merits, and in addition a musk-like fragrance that is admired by many persons. Bryonopsis laciniosa has lovely, smooth, laciniated foliage and little clusters of bloom, followed by small, spotted fruits that are quite attractive. The vines of this Gourd make a dense, vigorous and graceful covering or screen, and are readily started from seeds. Luffa Acutangula is the Dish-Cloth Gourd. Its foliage is rather heavy, and makes a fine background for its large, golden flowers. The fruits are long and club-like, and when partly rotted the net-work can be washed out and bleached, and is useful, not only for scouring or washing, but for various kinds of fancy work. Cyclanthera, Echinocystis and the various small, fancy Gourds are all beautiful and desirable vines. Turk's Turban, Hercules' Club, Fancy Orange and the Warted Gourd are all curious and handsome. When making out your seed order do not omit mixed Gourds. They will give you as much pleasure as almost anything you can grow.

HER COUNTRY HOME.

She loves the hills and valleys,
The woods and streamlets clear,
To her each plant is winsome
To her each flower is dear;
She loves the gentle cattle
That in the pastures roam,
Each bird that sings in gladness
About her country home.

Each vine-clad porch is restful,
Each room she decks with care,
And every guest is welcome
Who seeks her presence there.
She longs not for the cities
With spires that pierce the dome,
For her life's joys are centred
Within her country home.

A CHEAP HOTBED.

WE MADE our hot-bed on the south side of a fence. A space six feet wide and eighteen feet long was dug out eighteen inches deep, and filled in about a foot deep, with new stable manure packed firmly down. On this was placed good garden soil, enough to raise it above the surrounding surface. The frame-work consisted of a one by twelve inch board eighteen feet long on the north or rear side, and a board one by eight inches on the south. The end boards, of course, sloped to fit the two sides. Partition boards were put in every three feet, so that in all there were six sections—three feet by six feet. Instead of glass sash we used six strips of muslin two and one-fourth yards long. One end of each strip was tacked to the wide board on the back, and the other end to a narrow board three feet long. This last end hung down several inches over the south side. When it was desirable to do so, we could roll any one, or all of the strips of cloth and let in full sun or air. In severe weather some additional covering was used.

We planted one section in Tomato seeds, one in early Cabbage, and one in late Cabbage. One and a half in Lettuce, one in Radishes and half of one in flower seeds. The Radishes were large enough to use by the last of February, and then more Lettuce was planted in that section. We sold more than enough stuff that season to pay for the bed, besides what we used ourselves. The frame will last for years, but new cloth must be bought each season.

Flower Babies.—There is nothing more bewitching to me than babies. Human babies, first choice—then the flower babies. What is prettier than the two leaves that push up through black dirt, from a Geranium seed? Not those of Primroses, certainly. Yet, I am glad I persevered and saved some of the many tiny, spindly plants that came from a three-cent packet of seeds, for when these thirteen plants came to bloom, with no two alike, they were all so handsome I had no trouble in giving away as many as I had not room for.

WATER HYACINTH.

ONCE saw a pot of Water Hyacinths growing and blooming in soil, after the fashion of a Geranium. I was surprised, and was told that the owner of the plant had received it in a collection, and ignorant of its habits, had simply planted it in a pot of rich earth. It was extremely pretty and odd looking, and seemed to like its place very well.

It was watered like other plants, once a day, and it bloomed beautifully. To me it had the look of a fish out of water, for I had not supposed that it could be grown in this manner.

In its home, down in the Southern rivers and lakes, this plant is a wonder of beauty. The leaves, with their air bulbs, are immense, and the flower spikes incredibly long and bright. I have seen unbroken miles of it, broad as the stream of water, and blue as the summer sky. It is a wild, sweet, wonderful thing, free as the water itself. To see it meekly growing, it roots fast in common garden soil, and shut in by a pot of clay amazed me.

A FRIEND'S TIP.

70-Year-Old Man Not Too Old to Accept a Food Pointer.

"For the last 20 years," writes a Maine man, "I've been troubled with Dyspepsia and liver complaint, and have tried about every known remedy without much in the way of results until I took up the food question.

"A friend recommended Grape-Nuts food, after I had taken all sorts of medicines with only occasional, temporary relief.

"This was about nine months ago, and I began the Grape-Nuts for breakfast with cream and a little sugar. Since then I have had the food for at least one meal a day, usually for breakfast.

"Words fail to express the benefit I received from the use of Grape-Nuts. My stomach is almost entirely free from pain and my liver complaint is about cured, I have gained flesh, sleep well can eat nearly any kind of food except greasy, starchy things and am strong and healthy at the age of 70 years.

"If I can be the means of helping any poor mortal who has been troubled with dyspepsia as I have been, I am willing to answer any letter enclosing stamp." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

SOMETHING ABOUT PALMS AND FERNS.

SO MANY people who try to raise Palms encounter the greatest difficulties in trying to prevent the foliage from turning brown. In greenhouses this never occurs, owing to the moist condition of the atmosphere. In the home there is too much dryness, and the only remedy for it is to sponge the leaves with warm water every day. This will keep them bright and moist, and prevent their turning brown. Ferns are also easily dried out. I have lost some of my very choicest ferns by neglecting to water them at proper intervals. The Maiden Hair Ferns, than which I consider none more delicate or exquisite, require an even temperature and a great deal of moisture, and if they do not receive it they will curl up and wither in a very few days.

The best soil I have found to be ordinary loam and leaf mold, equal parts, with a little charcoal and sand to keep the earth light and porous. Never should the roots of Palms and Ferns be disturbed unless when potting; then they should be thoroughly watered and slipped from the pots very carefully and placed in the larger ones. Care must be taken for a few days not to expose to a too strong light, until the tiny rootlets take hold in the new earth. Palms and Ferns, however, require very nearly the same treatment. I have the best success with the Boston Fern; it is never troubled with insects, and if given plenty of water and a little light it will thrive and grow on year after year.

We have beautiful Ferns growing wild all along the roadsides in shady places, which would make lovely house plants if they could only become civilized enough to take to our way of living. The only way I ever found to steal a march on them is to take up the roots in early spring, just as soon as their little, fuzzy heads peep through the mold, and transplant them to some shady place in the yard and give them plenty of water until they are well started. One can have a very lovely fernery, and have a fine collection of many different kinds with very little trouble. I believe there are between twenty and thirty different varieties in Vermont, of which the Maiden Hair heads the list as the most exquisite and delicate.

Palms and Ferns, except the Boston Fern, are often attacked by two kinds of insects—the Scale and the Mealy Bug. The former look like little, flat, brown spots; the Mealy Bug is nearly round, white, soft and woolly. The best manner of destroying these pests is to give them a daily bath of good, strong soap-suds, about lukewarm. This will also kill their larvae. A friend of mine has a Boston Fern that is eight years old. The fronds reach from the pot, which stands on a center table, to the floor, the plant measuring six feet in circumference.

Ferns require less light than most Palms, and should never be set for any length of time in strong sunlight. I had, at one time, four lovely Ferns, which were placed in the bay window behind other heavy foliaged plants and forgotten; after four days they were discovered, but their destruction was swift and sure—not a live frond left.

In watering Palms and Ferns care should be taken that water does not settle around the base of the stalks, which often causes them to decay. To prevent this, build the earth higher in the center of the pot and around the stalks.

Window Arrangement of Asparagus Sprengerii.—Have two strong wooden brackets made which will extend out from the window about fifteen inches. Fasten one on each side on framework at top of window. Have a hook at end of brackets and hang by a wire from each one, a pail containing a plant of Asparagus Sprengerii. I use tin pales because they are light; then cover with bark. Have them hang half way down the under sash, and be sure the window sash is raised to the top. This arrangement is especially adapted to windows where all the light is needed for other purposes.

NO MISTAKE HERE. Discovery of a Proof-Reader.

Even a proof-reader may make mistakes unless careful reading is maintained all the time.

It makes a lot of difference sometimes, just how a thing is read.

This is the tale:

“‘No tea and not one drop of coffee,’ ordered the doctor—and I rebelled. But alas, with nerves that saw, felt and heard things that were not, rebellion was useless.

“With the greatest reluctance I gave up these lifelong companions, and drank milk, milk—until the very step of the milkman grew hateful.

“My nerves were some better, but breakfast without some warm beverage grew wearisome, and bid fair to be entirely slighted. And with a brain that for nine hours daily must work hard, ever demanding nourishment, the failing appetite was a serious preposition.

“Then in despair, Postum was tried. I had tasted it once and heartily disliked the pale watery compound, but now, literally starving for a hot drink, I read and re-read the directions on the package with the critical eye of the proof-reader, following them out to the letter and lo! the rich brown liquid of the advertisements.

“Not one but three cups disappeared and since then Postum has been my sole warm beverage, unfailingly refreshing and helpful; both body and nerves testifying to its helpfulness by new strength and vigor.” Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, “The Road to Wellville,” in pkgs. “There’s a Reason.”

WIFE OR WHISKEY WHICH?

How One Woman Solved the Drink Question
In Five Minutes. "Women Can Now Have All the Temperance They Want, the Day
They Really Want It." She Says:

I believe that. I believe every drinking man can be DISGUSTED with liquor. That has been my experience. After twenty years of anxiety over my husband, who tried to quit and couldn't, I found out that the drink habit wasn't a vice at all, but a DISEASE, and that the hard drinker needed medicine more than he did lectures, and so, acting on that theory, I found the proper remedy and cured him.

Since then I have told scores of women about the simple, home treatment I used and they, too, have had splendid success, many of them with the most hopeless kind of drinkers. The remedy can be given secretly, is inexpensive, easy to obtain, perfectly harmless, and doesn't take long to do the work. I am sure it will help you, and I will gladly tell you all about it if you will send me your name and address. Mine is Mrs. Margaret Anderson 278 Maple Ave., Hillburn, N. Y. A Talking Doll Free.

Manager George Clark, who has recently made some remarkable offers, says: I have been giving away all kinds of beautiful presents as prizes to people who help me in one of the greatest advertising campaigns undertaken. My offers are so liberal and I expect those to whom I give the presents to do so little in return for them that my readers ought to feel pleased to work for me. I am introducing into each city and town in the United States my famous high-art pictures—beautiful pictures done in fourteen colors. Everybody wants a picture, and on my strictly introductory offer I ask you to collect 25c for every picture you distribute. I give the people who help me the pictures on credit; you pay me nothing until after you have distributed the pictures and collected for them; then you send in the money collected and you get the present free. The pictures are TREMENDOUS SELLERS, and on my offer you have no difficulty of disposing of them at 25 cents each.

Here, for instance, is a beautiful sleeping and talking doll. This doll is seventeen inches high, is completely and fashionably dressed from hat to shoes, including underwear and stockings, and she is indeed a living beauty. The doll indeed ought to be enough of a present, but I am liberal enough to send with the doll a fine doll's tea set of twenty-six hand-painted pieces, absolutely free. You get this magnificent doll and tea set as a free present for introducing only ten of my high-art pictures at 25c each. When you have collected the $2.50 send in the money and the presents are yours. I pay all postage, run all the risk and take back the pictures that you cannot readily distribute.

Now, besides this, if you answer this ad. THE FIRST TIME YOU SEE IT, I will give you a beautiful Lord's Prayer charm locket with a long neck-chain as an extra present, just for answering this ad, at once.

Send me no money in advance. Just write as follows: "Dear Mr. Clark: Please send me the ten pictures as per your offer." A postal card will do. Better write today.

Address Mr. George Clark, President, 63 Washington Street, Desk A, Chicago, Ill.

Decorate Your Home

The Editor of Home Folks Tells You To-day of an Opportunity to Beautify Your Home Free of Charge.

Every lady, rich or poor, likes to have a pretty home.

Of course you want nice furniture and pretty decorations in your house and as nice as any of your neighbors have.

Sometimes it is a pretty hard pull to keep up with the richer people and yet have that air of culture and refinement about the home of which every woman is proud.

But when you can get beautiful decorations and get them free—just for doing somebody a friendly turn without any real work—then it's yours, Madam, if you neglect this opportunity.

A Wonderful Liberal Offer

And just because I know that the readers of my paper will take advantage of this opportunity, I am particularly glad to tell my subscribers of a most honest and wonderfully liberal offer. Look on this page at the magnificent dinner set with the initials in gold. Mr. Geo. Clark, publisher of the famous "High-Art Pictures," tells me that he will give every one of my lady readers one of these magnificent dinner sets absolutely free if she only helps him with a little recommendation of his pictures. As you see, Mr. Clark does not want you to do any canvassing.

Everyone Gets a Reward

You will see, also, that even if you should not succeed in carrying out the simple conditions of Mr. Clark's offer he wants you to be paid for your honest effort. I hope that every one of my subscribers will distribute 24 pictures and get this reward. Send me a post card and tell me how many you have sent out and how many have been sold.

LADIES' MAGAZINE, Dept. 37, Portland, Me.

SOMETHING'S HAPPENED! FOR WOMEN'S SAKE. SOMETHING KILLED!

READERS LISTEN SHARP. DON'T MISS. BEST THING EVER HAPPENED!
Hundred years coming, here at last, full-grown—so startling will say it's impossible—but wait, don't worry—

LADIES, YOUR PRAYER ANSWERED. THERE'S NO MORE WASH DAY!

IT'S DEAD! LAID AWAY! WIPE OUT FOREVER!

Washing machine swallows wash boards.

ideas, methods, NEW EVERYTHING. Wonderful, but true, family washing cleaned with no more work than getting a simple meal, less time—no rubbing, squeezing, pounding, packing, pressing, no injury—no drudgery—that's past. Good-bye wash board, washing machines, laundries—throw them away—the EASY WAY is here to bless humanity. Women have prayed for death of wash day—for clean clothes without rubbing—ruining health, looks—when they could wash, get dinner, see friends, indulge in recreation without fatigue—when women thought no more of washing clothes than to get a simple meal. That glorious day has come. The world's full wash boards, so-called washing machines, yet wash day same as ever—still long, dreary day—no easier, no shorter, no better. Use wash board or washing machine, its drudgery, long hours, hard work—backache—a day no woman forgets. Invention that killed wash day, named EASY WAY—name tells whole story—easy on clothes—easy used—kept clean—handled—easy on women—makes washing easy—easy to buy and sell. Not called a machine—powers inside concealed—caution the way it gets dirt—has awful appetite for dirt—increases more it gets—goes after all the dirt in all the clothes at same time—little, but mighty—silent, but powerful—uses no spirits, yet works in darkness. OPERATED ON STOVE—move knob occasionally—that's all—scarcely anything to do but wait between batches—child can do it. All iron and steel—always ready—sets away on shelf. Entirely unlike old methods. Verily, wash day is dead EASY WAY settled that—woman's joy and satisfaction. Less than an hour cleans washing which before took all day—Cleans all clothes, finest laces, curtains, etc., in about one-tenth time without rubbing, squeezing, packing, pressing without chemicals to injure goods. Saves 52 days drudgery yearly—makes women's hardest work easiest household duty—saves clothes, labor, fuel, health, looks. Surprises all—sounds strange, is strange, but listen, it's no experiment, going on daily. You can do it.

Throw them away.

J. MCGEE, Tenn., writes:—“One young lady cleaned day's washing by old method in one hour with EASY WAY. Another in 45 minutes. Everything as clean as could be.”

E. CRAMER, Tex., writes:—“Received Easy Way. Gave it a thorough trial. After ten minutes clothes nice and clean. Satisfactory in every respect.”

ANNA MORGAN, Ill., writes:—“I washed a woolen bed blanket in Easy Way in just three minutes perfectly clean.” J. H. BARRETT, Ark., after ordering 38 Easy Ways, says:—“I don't understand why it does the work, but it does. You have the grandest invention I ever heard of. People are skeptical; have to be shown.” J. W. MYERS, Ga., says:—“Find check to cover one dozen 'Easy Ways.' Easy Way greatest invention for womanhood, forever abolishing miserable wash day. Saves me turning old washer for hours. I am ready to have old washer accompany all others to the Dump. Sells itself.” I. BECK, Ga., writes:—“Enclose order. Find 'Easy Way' as represented. Worked 4 days and have 15 orders.” J. T. REAY, N. C., says:—“Been out 2 days—sold 1 dozen, for which enclose order. Everybody is carried away that sees it work.” GUARANTEED, everything proven, old house, responsible, capital $100,000.00. Price, only $5.00 complete, ready to use—sent to any address. Not sold in stores.

BEST EVER HAPPENED FOR AGENTS, SALESMEN, MANAGERS—MEN OR WOMEN—at home or traveling, all or part time, showing—taking orders—appointing agents. EASY WAY new. Nothing like it. Demand world-wide—agents reaping harvest of dollars. When operated people stop, look and listen, crowd, push, squeeze, miss engagements, get excited—watch it as though a thing of life. 12 see—10 buy. Write to-day for special Agent's plan. World unsupplied. CHILDREN'S CORNER.

Dear Mr. Park:—I read your letter with interest every month, and I would like to suggest that you use a certain page for the Children's Letter each month.  I am 13 years old, dark complected, three feet tall, have black hair, and weigh 100 pounds.  I have a pretty little pet kitten named Tennie, and when she is large enough to hunt, if we catch her killing any of our song-birds I will use your remedy on her.—Ruth Williams, Kuhns, Miss., Dec. 17, 1907.

Causing great excitement wherever exhibited. Fuel drawn principally from atmosphere. Uses 395 barrels of air, while consuming one gallon of oil. Wood, coal and oil cost money. ONLY FREE FUEL IS AIR. Supply unlimited. No trust in control. Air belongs to rich & poor alike.

HARRISON'S VALVELESS OIL-GAS AND AIR BURNER STOVE

Automatically generates gas from kerosene oil, mixing it with air. Burns like gas. Intense hot fire. Combustion perfect. To Operate—turn knob—oil runs into burner—touch a match, it generates gas which passes through air mixer, drawing in about a barrel of air, to every large spoonful of oil consumed. That's all. It is self-regulating, no more attention. Same heat all day, or all night. For more or less heat, simply turn knob. There it remains until you come again. To put fire out, turn knob, raising burner, oil runs back into can, fire's out. As near perfection as anything in this world. No dirt, soot, or ashes. No leaks—nothing to clog or close up. No wick—not even a valve, yet heat is under proper control.

D. E. CARN, Ind., writes: "The Harrison Oil-Gas Stoves are worth more than twice as much as they cost. It costs me only $4\frac{1}{2}$ cents a day for fuel." L. S. Norris, Vt., writes: "The Harrison Oil-Gas Generators are wonderful savers of fuel, at least 50 per cent. to 75 per cent. over wood and coal." E. D. MRS. CORA B. MILLER MAKES A FORTUNE

Started a Few Years Ago with No Capital, and Now Employs Nearly One Hundred Clerks and Stenographers.

Until a few years ago Mrs. Cora B. Miller lived in a manner similar to that of thousands of other very poor women of the average small town and village. She now resides in her own palatial brown-stone residence, and is considered one of the most successful business women in the United States.

Mrs. Miller's New Residence, Earned in Less Than One Year.

Several years ago Mrs. Miller learned of a mild and simple preparation that cured herself and several friends of female weakness and piles. She was besieged by so many women needing treatment that she decided to furnish it to those who might call for it. She started with only a few dollars' capital, and the remedy, possessing true and wonderful merit, producing many cures when doctors and other remedies failed, the demand grew so rapidly she was several times compelled to seek larger quarters. She now occupies one of the city's largest office buildings, which she owns, and almost one hundred clerks and stenographers are required to assist in this great business.

Million Women Use It.

More than a million women have used Mrs. Miller's remedy, and no matter where you live, she can refer you to ladies in your own locality who can and will tell any sufferer that this marvelous remedy really cures women. Despite the fact that Mrs. Miller's business is very extensive, she is always willing to give aid and advice to every suffering woman who writes to her. She is a generous, good woman and has decided to give away to women who have never used her medicine $10,000.00 worth absolutely FREE.

Every woman suffering with pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing-down feelings, nervousness, creeping sensations up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, or piles from any cause, should sit right down and send her name and address to Mrs. Cora B. Miller, Box 4667, Kokomo, Ind., and receive by mail (free of charge in plain wrapper) a 50-cent box of her marvelous medicine; also her valuable book, which every woman should have.

Remember, this offer will not last long, for thousands and thousands of women who are suffering will take advantage of this generous means of getting cured. So if you are ailing, do not suffer another day, but send your name and address to Mrs. Miller for the book and medicine before the $10,000.00 worth is all gone.

GOSSIP.

Viola Odorata from Seeds.—The Sweet-scented Violet starts tardily from seeds, and is often disappointing on that account. The following letter is a record of experience that may be of interest to many:

Dear Mr. Park:—Three years ago I ordered a three-cent packet of Viola odorata, mixed. I planted it, and waited, and waited, and waited, but no plants appeared. Then I dug up the plot about mid-summer, planting it with tender annuals from the hot-bed. I ordered another packet, complaining of my disappointment in not having a single plant. When my packet arrived with your little note telling me that it sometimes took a year for that seed to germinate, I felt sorry for complaining, and when I was ready to plant the seed again I chose the same spot, pulling up the annuals that had finished blooming, and lo, there under those annuals, were the unmistakable tiny plants whose leaves were none other than Violets. On the first rainy day I carefully lifted them and planted them in a bed under the apple tree, and this summer I have had a charming bed of the sweet-scented beauties, whose odor was detected above all the other plants that grew near. J. Edwin Fletcher.

SICK OF TOBACCO

NEW REMEDY
SENT FREE.

O! what a pleasure to see your man or boy turn with a wry face from tobacco, cigars, cigarettes or snuff, disgusted and sickened by the very odor!

Here are a few of myriads I have helped. I believe all will verify me, if stamped envelope is sent: J. D. Dear, DeRidder, La.; E. M. Delap, Sunnyside, S. Dak.; J. E. McAllister, Brynside, W. Va.; Miss C. Windon, Penn Yan, N. Y. (father); Mrs. W. W. Blazer, Wailand, Tenn. (snuff); Robt. P. Baker, Rockford, Wash.

My husband was a tobacco "fiend". This wonderful NEW REMEDY cured him restored his broken health, and I am determined that the whole world shall know of this great blessing for women, who cure their loved ones; the POWDERS being odorless and tasteless, may be GIVEN SECRETLY in tea, coffee and food.

MEN CURE THEMSELVES. easily and gradually, by taking the remedy in TABLET FORM three or four times a day. They like this remedy because they don't have to quit; IT MAKES THEM QUIT.

The Free Treatment has cured hundreds, although merely sent to show how harmless it is, how it may be used, etc. If you need more, it will cost less than tobacco, and thus you will save money and health and lose no pleasure. Send NOW: state if secret remedy is wanted; send two stamps and you will hear from me, in plain envelope, promptly.

No Rupture Fakes Or Lies By Brooks

Brooks' appliance retains and cures rupture. Immediate relief guaranteed and a square deal for every sufferer. No fakes or lies, no subterfuge or evasion; just straight business and money refunded if not satisfactory. High financial references and 30 years' success with rupture are behind these statements. Where others fail is where I have my greatest success. Thousands of men, women and children relieved and cured at a cost less than the price of many slipping, galling trusses. No springs, pads, salves or harness, but just a simple, natural, guaranteed appliance which gives instant relief, rest, security, when all others fail. There is truth in Brooks' book about rupture. It is free and gives prices and names of people cured. Don't wait, or forget, but write today for Brooks' Book. Address C. E. Brooks, 4102 Brooks Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

PERFECTLY DEVELOPED BUST

I assert and will prove to you that my new, perfected, natural method of treatment DEVELOPS THE BUST quickly, naturally and perfectly. Thin cheeks, scrawny neck and arms made plump and beautiful. My new book, containing "before and after" illustrations and information how to develop yourself at home will be sent you FREE. DELMAR ASSOCIATION, 14 EAST 23D STREET, Dept. 124 NEW YORK

A 20-year Patron.—Dear Mr. Park—Twenty years ago, as a boy at home, I first began to buy your seeds, and every year, when the new catalogue comes, I devour it as studiously and as earnestly as though I had a ranch, instead of a fifty-foot house-lot. I have flowers from your seeds from the time that the snow leaves the ground, or melts, until it flies again in the Fall. J. Edwin Fletcher.

Hampden Co., Dec. 12, 1906.

FREE Park's Floral Guide for 1907 will be mailed to any of your floral friends free. Send only names of those who buy seeds or are interested.

To Women Who Dread Motherhood!

Information How They May Give Birth to Happy, Healthy Children Absolutely Without Pain—Sent Free

He has proved that all pain at childbirth may be entirely banished, and he will gladly tell you how it may be done absolutely free of charge. Send your name and address to Dr. J. H. Dye, 104 Lewis Block, Buffalo, N. Y., and he will send you, postpaid, his wonderful book which tells how to give birth to happy, healthy children, absolutely without pain; also how to cure sterility. Do not delay but write to-day.

GOOD POSITION FOR A FLORIST.—The Jackson Health Resort, Danville, N. Y., want a florist to take charge of their range of greenhouses, one who understands the growing and making up of flowers—a hustling, honest, agreeable workman, married or unmarried. This is a place worth considering by a competent man. Apply for particulars, and stating qualifications and recommendations to JAS. H. JACKSON, Prest., Danville, N. Y.

Fun With a Magic Lantern.

Charles Jones, manager-publisher of the famous high-art pictures, makes the following offer to boys: Boys, if you have never had a magic lantern that works right and has good, strong lenses, you do not know what fun you have missed. I handle a Russo Electro Magic Lantern, which you can get absolutely free for a half hour's work for me.

All you have to do is to write for ten of my famous high-art pictures, getting them from me without sending any money in advance; then you will sell the pictures on a special offer at 25c each, sending me the $2.50 collected, and the beautiful Russo Electro Magic Lantern with sixty fine views is yours. The ten pictures will sell in less than no time, for they are in fourteen colors and 16x20 inches in size—simply magnificent pictures. I want to introduce them right away in your neighborhood, so write to me to send you the ten pictures. If you write at once I will also send you a beautiful pocket stereoscope with fifty double views, free, besides the magic lantern. Address Chas. J. Jones, 63-65 Washington St., Desk D, Chicago, Ill.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Dear Mr. Park:—I am very much interested in your Magazine. I do not see any letters for this State, where the Evergreens are very beautiful, and where the Rhododendrons grow on our hills perfectly at home, and where the Foxglove is more plentiful than most other wild flowers. They are a fine sight, however, where we see an acre or more growing on some new burned-over flat. I raised some very fine Poppies from seeds this year, very large, double and of many colors. I also have two fine Dahlias from seeds, one a fine yellow, the other crimson with light bronze shade. I have Pansies of different colors and markings very pretty, raised from seeds. Please describe the Rose Seven Sisters in your Magazine.

Mrs. J. H. Baldwin.

Douglas Co., Oreg., Dec. 10, 1906.

[NOTE.—The Seven Sisters is a Prairie Climbing Rose, both stems and flowers much like those of Baltimore Belle, but the flowers appearing in large clusters, almost hiding the foliage when in full bloom. The plants are perfectly hardy, are not subject to mildew, and in many respects this Rose is one of the most desirable of summer-blooming climbing Roses for a trellis or wall.—ED.]

The sad story of MY FATHER'S GREAT SUFFERING FROM CANCER

Read the following and be convinced.
WE CAN CURE YOU.

Forty-five years ago my father who was himself a doctor, had a vicious cancer that was eating away his life. The best physicians in America could do nothing for him. After nine long years of awful suffering, and after the cancer had totally eaten away his nose and portions of his face (as shown in his picture here given) his palate was entirely destroyed together with portions of his throat. Father fortunately discovered the great remedy that cured him. This was over forty years ago, and he has never suffered a day since.

This same discovery has now cured thousands who were threatened with operation and death. And to prove that this is the truth we will give their sworn statement if you will write us. Doctors, Lawyers, Mechanics, Ministers, Laboring Men, Bankers and all classes recommend this glorious life-saving discovery, and we want the whole world to benefit by it.

HAVE YOU CANCER? Tumors, Ulcers, Abscesses, Fever Sores, Goitre, Catarrah, Salt-Rheum, Rheumatism, Piles, Eczema, Scald Head or Scrofula in any form.

We positively guarantee our statements true, perfect satisfaction and honest service—or money refunded.

It will cost you nothing to learn the truth about this wonderful home treatment without the knife or caustic. And if you know anyone who is afflicted with any disease above mentioned, you can do a Christian act of kindness by sending us their addresses so we can write them how easily they can be cured in their own home. This is no idle talk, we mean just what we say. We have cured others, and can cure you. Forty years experience guarantees success. Write us today; delay is dangerous. Illustrated Booklet FREE.

I CURE GOITRE

I Have Found a Remedy That You Should Try.
YOU MAY TEST IT FREE.

Mrs. L. E. Brent of Bardwell, Ky., writes:—"I am happy to tell you that my goitre is entirely cured and that I am in better health every way than for years. You have a wonderful treatment Doctor, and I am recommending it to all my afflicted friends."

I have cured scores of goitres after all other treatment had failed to give even relief, and am so sure I can cure any case no matter of how long standing that I will send a full $2.50 treatment free as a test to any sufferer.

Many have been cured by this test treatment alone. Why not try it yourself—it may cure you. It is free. Address Dr. W. Thompson Bobo, 47 Minty Block, Battle-Creek, Mich.

SLUMBER SONG.

Hush-a-bye baby, the sun in the West
Calls all the sweet little blossoms to rest;
See them just nodding their dear little heads,
With the dark shadows to curtain their beds.
Soon they will sleep, while the stars in the sky,
Fling them a kiss, with a hush-a-bye-bye.

Hush-a-bye baby, with Lily and Rose,
Now you are safe in the land of repose.
Mother's arms guide you, and mother's lips pray
Angels may lead you o'er Life's changeful way.
Never a cloud in the blue of your sky,
Sweet be your dreams with a hush-a-bye-bye.

BINDING THE MAGAZINE.

Mr. Park:—To those of your readers who may wish to preserve your little Magazine and bind it at home, permit me to describe a simple and satisfactory method. After assembling the twelve months together, January on top and December at the bottom, bring them evenly into line. With a brad-awl make a hole equidistant from top to bottom, and about $\frac{1}{4}$ inch from the back edge. Another hole three inches from the center or first hole towards the top, and a third hole the same distance from the center towards the bottom. With a darning needle and a piece of common small wrapping twine, (double strand), bring the needle down through the upper hole, up through the center hole, down through the lower hole and again up through the center hole and tie. A good substitute for needle and twine is a corset or round shoe lacer. It takes but a few minutes, and the Magazine thus bound, with the index towards the end of the December Number, makes a very handy volume for reference.

THE $100.00 IN CASH PRIZES NEWEST PUZZLE

CAN YOU
SOLVE
IT?

This is the newest and most interesting puzzle. You are sure to be wonderfully entertained in working out the solution and you are ALSO SURE TO BE HANDSOMELY REWARDED IF YOU ARE SUCCESSFUL. At the top of the advertisement you will see three lines divided into sections with dots in each section. Each one of these three lines of dots spells the name of a great city in the United States. There are twenty-six letters in the alphabet and we have used figures in spelling out the cities instead of letters. LETTER "A" IS NUMBER 1, LETTER "B" IS NUMBER 2, LETTER "C" IS NUMBER 3, etc., throughout the whole alphabet. Now to illustrate, in the top line in the first section you will find fourteen dots, so that letter is "N." This is all the information we are going to give you, so put on your thinking cap and study it out for yourself.

We will give on March 30th, 1907, One Hundred Dollars in Cash Prizes to those persons who send us the neatest correct names of the three cities.

Twenty-five Dollars in Cash is the first prize.

Ten Dollars in Cash is the Second Prize. Next Ten, $2.50 each.

Five Dollars in Cash is the Third Prize. Next Thirty-five, $1.00 Each.

We cheerfully give away this ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS and we do not care who gets it. The question is, can you get the correct solution? If you can, write the names of the three cities in as neat a manner as possible, together with your full name and address and mail to us immediately. Success is for energetic and thoughtful people. So dear reader, do not pass this advertisement by without trying hard to win, especially as it does not cost you a cent to compete.

It will pay you to carefully read this offer several times before giving up the idea of trying to win a CASH PRIZE. Do not delay BUT SEND IN YOUR SOLUTION JUST AS SOON AS POSSIBLE. Address:—Prize Editor, Hopkins Pub. Co., Box No. 1713, Station E, New York City.

GOSSIP.

Dear Flower Folks:—A number of years since I planted, in my Flower-yard, twelve hundred bulbs of Tulips. These were early, medium, and late blooming kinds. There were single and double; striped and self-colored; fragrant and scentless; large and small. Altogether there was a wealth of color that would have set a color-lover wild with delight. A bed of Gesnerianas attracted much attention. The stems grew three feet high, and the flowers were as large as the largest sized coffee cup. They were of a brilliant crimson-scarlet, with a velvety blue-black center. I was indebted to Mr. Park and to other floral friends for the choicest of my Tulips.

Well, for many years, season after season, the Tulips were a source of pleasure to us and to our friends. But an end cometh to all things, and my Tulips were not exempt from the decrees of Fate. One winter the river over-flowed its banks, and lingered several days; then the water-soaked Tulips were washed from their beds, and, freezing weather set in, and inevitably the bulbs were frozen and rotted. Ada Gist.

Dear Flower Folks:—I had two lovely flower beans last summer, one with white flowers, the other pink. They would be very pretty as a porch climber, if given support. I also had some Nest-egg Gourds. They will climb a woven wire, and make an odd and cool place, as they make a nice shade, and when the eggs are on they look very odd, hanging among the green leaves. I also had a Pink that every one who saw thought very odd. It was a lovely white, with pink center when it first opened, and as the blossom grew older it turned red. A plant would have white, pink, and red blossoms on at once, the old blossoms red, the new ones white, and the ones a day old pink. It was very pretty and odd. Mrs. H. A. Stewart.

Dear Mr. Park: — I cannot have a pet bird on account of my kittens. But I would rather see them among our maple trees, singing or flying at their own sweet will, than to see them shut up in a cage. I would write to the little lame girl whose letter was in August Magazine, if I knew her address.—Ina Brown, Mendon, Okla.

Dear Mr. Park: — I got some Pansies last summer, and had a nice bed; the colors were blue with brown center, velvet with pink stripes, yellow and dark brown with yellow center. I can hardly wait till your Magazine comes.—Elizabeth Messenger, Hartford Co., Conn.

CLOUDLAND.

Come here, little girlie, and look up with me
At the billowy clouds, white-foamed like the sea.

There are wonderful things in cloudland today,
Make haste, little girl, lest they vanish away.

O see the big ship sailing out from the shore,
And away out to sea are a dozen or more.

See that beautiful pony with long flowing mane,
How he draws a fine carriage without whip or rein.

There's a great polar bear on the big mountain side,
And an Eskimo out with his dogs for a ride.

There are six, seven, eight—oh do see them go!
Now rolls the Eskimo into the snow.

There's a big white elephant coming this way
In a great purple car; it is animal day.

And there's an old Ostrich, the pride of the show,
And two lovely swans as white as the snow.

There's an old, old man sitting under a tree,
And a queer little boy with a crooked knee.

There's a big easy chair where grandmother sits,
And rocks to and fro while her stocking she knits.

You can see her white cap as plain as can be;
Would you like little girlie to go there with me?

There's a billowy cloud with a golden crest,
And a bank of flowers away to the west.

Chrysanthemums, Aster and lovely white Phlox,
Lilies and Pansies and tall blooming Stocks.

There's a beautiful rose tree away to the South,
And a bird sailing off with a leaf in her mouth.

In our hammock a-swing, we will look, you and I,
At the gay panorama afloat in the sky.

ting a doctor or having to operation or harsh treatment.
people had been partially deaf or partially blind for from ten to forty years.

Yet, I do not pretend to cure all cases of deafness or eye diseases, but my book gives the causes and symptoms of each disease and tells whether they are curable or not.

I want every person afflicted with any disease of the eye, ear, nose or throat, to have a copy of this book. Simply write a letter or postal card, and say: “Send me your book,

Read What These People Say

Mr. John L. Richardson, of Denison, Iowa, was growing blind from Cataracts on both eyes, the doctors said he would have to wait and grow blind and have them removed by an operation. One month’s use of my Absorption remedies removed all traces of the Cataract and restored the sight perfectly.

Mrs. M. L. Roberts, of Windsor Sta., Va., says, “I was almost blind with Cataracts on both eyes;
the doctors said nothing but an operation would remove them.” She used one month’s treatment of my Absorption remedies and restored her sight
perfectly.

Mrs. R. F. Hill, of Clarksburg, Tenn., has suffered for thirty years with diseased eyes, tumors of the lids, inflammation of the eyes and failing sight, had been operated on several times with no permanent relief. Two month’s use of my Absorption remedies restored her sight and cured the tumors perfectly.

Mr. Anthony Engrebretson, of Gratiot, Wis., says; “I was blind in one eye as a result of disease and inflammation. The doctors gave me no hope. You restored my sight perfectly.”

Mr. Ed Pecue, of West Pawlet, Vt., was not able to read without his glasses for twenty years. With one month’s use of my remedies, she was able to throw away her glasses and read perfectly without them.

Mr. Oliver Hadsell, of Nevada, Mo., had a severe case of Inflammation of the Eyes and Granulated Lids. All doctors had failed to benefit him.
Three months’ use of my remedies cured him
perfectly.

Mrs. Louise Charooz, of Woodward, Okla., had Deafness and Head Noises for four years. Had an operation performed without any benefit. She used two months’ treatment of my remedies and restored her hearing completely.

Mr. Chester Lantz, of Hicksville, Ohio, had suffered with slight Deafness, caused from Catarrh and buzzing in the ears for fifteen years; two months’ use of my remedies restored his hearing, stopped the noises, and cured the Catarrh.

Mr. Dorman Lieske, of Orient, S. D., had Ulceration and Inflammation, Discharges from the ears, with Deafness and Headnoises; doctors said an operation would have to be performed. One month’s course of my remedies healed the Ulcers and Inflammation, stopped the Head Noises and restored his hearing perfectly.

Mr. David Williams, of New Castle, Pa., suffered with ear disease and Partial Deafness for twenty-five years. The best doctors in England he says failed to help him. Used one month’s treatment of my Absorption remedies and restored his hearing
perfectly.

Mrs. Nancy Pierce, of Russell, Iowa, had been losing her hearing for eighteen years, doctors said nothing could be done. She was seventy-two years of age. One month’s use of my remedies restored her hearing perfectly.

Mr. Marcus L. Padgett, of Bunkie, La., says:
“had been afflicted with deafness and ear trouble for eighteen months. I had been treated by two doctors with no benefit. I felt relief after using your treatment three weeks, and one month’s use of it cured me completely. I advise everyone afflicted with ear trouble to try it.”
